Dear Sir,

An informal meeting of some of the officers of the Mysore Civil Service was held on 23rd July 1950 to discuss the implications of the Indian Administrative Service scheme. A copy of the proceedings of that meeting is herewith enclosed for your information. In view of the importance of the subject, it has been decided to circulate copies of the proceedings to all the members of the Mysore Civil Service. Sri V. Vedavyas Acharya was proposed to the chair.

The Chairman called upon Sri Puttarangaswami to explain the objects of the meeting and the circumstances leading up to it.

Sri Puttarangaswami explained that the meeting was exploratory in character and was convened with a view to determine the issues that require clarification with reference to the Indian Administrative Service Scheme.

At the request of some of the members Sri Srinivasan explained in brief the outlines of the scheme.

The following are the points that were tabled for clarification. After discussion on each point tentative conclusions were arrived at as noted below:

(1) Whether the Mysore Civil Service should integrate with the I.A.S. or not?

The concensus of opinion was that there is no objection to integrate provided adequate safeguards are ensured to protect the interests of the existing personnel.

(2) Whether there should be screening or not?

During the discussion it was emphasized that there should be no screening for Mysore Civil Service Officers in view of the fact that they are members of a long established Civil Service with a reputation and a record second to none in India, that the present incumbents are holding these posts in view of their efficiency and experience and that any screening by an outside body would not only be derogatory to the prestige of the Service as a whole but would also be humiliating to individuals and could not be expected to yield fair results. In case any selection is inevitable, it may be done both for junior and senior men and that only by our Government who alone are competent to determine the relative merits of the existing personnel.

(3) What is the number of Senior Service posts to be included in the I.A.S. Cadre?

According to the scheme as originally contemplated the total number of senior posts had been fixed at 27. It was felt during the discussion that the handing over of such a large number of listed posts to the I.A.S. would seriously affect the prospects of junior officers of the Provincial Service and would deprive them of the opportunities they would normally have had for promotion to the higher cadre. It was therefore, suggested that the total number of senior posts to be included in the I.A.S Cadre be kept at the minimum. Varied suggestions were made indicating that the number may be fixed at 18, 19, 21, 22. The concensus of opinion was that the exact number may be fixed by Government within this range.

Having regard to the fact that Government had originally decided upon the selection of a number far larger than that now proposed for the senior posts and in view of the present reduction in number, it was agreed that all those selected by Government in excess of the encadred strength should be treated as supernumeraries to be absorbed as and when vacancies arise and that in the meanwhile they should be given the same pay, weightage etc, as the encadred men.

In regard to junior officers also, since the number earmarked for selection is far in excess of the ratio fixed in the scheme the surplus should be treated as supernumeraries and given similar benefits in respect of pay, weightage, etc.

It was further agreed that there should be no direct recruitment either to the senior or junior posts in the I.A.S. Cadre till such time as all the supernumeraries (Senior & Junior) are absorbed.

Rate of flow of promotion.

Various suggestions were put forward but no agreement was arrived at on this point.

How do we deal with the case of persons not appearing for selection or not selected?

In view of the fact that selection if inveitable, will be made only by our Government and the same scales of pay as are allowed to the I.A.S. men are to be allowed to supernumeraries the question does not arise.

Classification of Officers (List II & III.)

This does not arise in view of the earlier decisions.

In case there is no option but to appear for an interview and if the incumbent refuses to submit what is the relief he can expect?

In the event of the safeguards suggested above not being considered the incumbents that decline to appear before the Interview Board should be given retirement benefits as already unanimously resolved at the last Special General Body Meeting of the Mysore Civil Service Association—namely, a special pension equal to 3/4th of the average emoluments drawn by the incumbent during the last completed year of service.

Enlargement of existing cadres in view of the I.A.S. Scheme

In view of the fact that a number of officers occupying the higher posts have been acting for long periods and will be adversely affected while their pay in the I.A.S, grades is being fixed, it is essential that immediate action should be taken to enlarge the existing cadres of both Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners, having regard to the number of men actually occupying the posts.

It is suggested that the cadres be expanded as follows:

Heads of Departments to be increased to 8.

Deputy Commissioners' cadre to be increased to 24 the 1st, 2nd and 3rd grades being equalised at 8 each.

Senior Assistant Commissioners to be increased to 20.

It was further suggested that Government be requested to issue immediate orders for the filling up of all existing vacancies in view of the impending integration.

What will be the sanctioned strength in the Senior and Junior posts in the Provincial Cadre after the integration?

It was agreed that this question can only be decided after the integration scheme is finalised.
